Community Journalism Club

Tuesday, January 13, 2026

6:00 PM - 8:00 PM

We started a community-led newspaper for Plymouth—and we want your voice in it. Whether you're into writing, photography, editing, design, or organizing, there's a role for you. We meet regularly to imagine, create, and build each issue together. Over time, we hope it grows into a broader platform for local storytelling and publishing. All ages and backgrounds are welcome!

Registration Open for Battle of the Books

Looking to check titles off your book list this year? Register now to compete in an epic trivia battle!

Steps to victory:

Find some book-loving friends to join your battle group. Then register online with a team of 3-5 people. Only one person should enter the registration for all team members. If you would like to participate but can't find a team, please email lwiest@plymouthlibrary.org.

Read the five titles on the booklist. You can split the books between team members or everyone can read all five.

Show up on March 14th to compete against other teams with trivia questions pulled directly from the book list. The team with the most right answers gets the glory (and a $20 Elephant Ear Books gift card for each team member).

Let the battle begin!
